American Embassy Families Evacuated From Danger Zone

By HAROLD K. MILKS
Nanking, Nov. 30 (AP)—The powerful Suichow garrison has begun quitting the city to go to the relief of 140,000 comrades trapped by Communists to the south, usually reliable sources said today.

The decision to abandon the bastion of East Central China 211 miles northwest of Nanking was taken in a desperate attempt to salvage forces for the defense of the capital.

Suichow had stood firm under nearly a month of Communist assault. But it was outflanked by a sweeping Red drive which cut across Suichow's lines of communications.

The strong government forces stationed there were reported moving south to engage Communist troops which have encircled the Nationalist Twelfth Army group.

Two Bad Signs
The government four days ago ordered the garrison to quit Suichow but the troops stuck to the fortified city 211 miles northwest of Nanking.

Aircraft on Suichow's large air field were ordered to leave during the night, these informants said.

(Only bright news from Chiang Kai-shek's government came from the northern front. An official dispatch said Chiang's armies recaptured Paotow, inner Mongolian rail terminus 320 miles west of Peiping.)

Meanwhile two ominous signs appeared in Nanking. (1) There was a total absence of war news in the afternoon papers. (2) The government's military spokesman remained away from his office.

In the past both of these have indicated reverses of considerable importance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies.

Nervousness was reflected in both diplomatic missions joined the American embassy in evacuating embassy and consular staff dependents to safer areas.

Infant and Father Die In Smashup Of Plane At Saginaw
Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—A 10-week-old baby died with his father in the crash of a light plane of Barryfield here Monday.

The victims were Dr. Ernest W. Jobe 32, of Breckenridge, Mich., and his baby son, Kim.

The child's mother, Geraldine, 31, was seriously injured.

Airport officials said Dr. Jobe, attempting a cross-wind landing with the small (Cub Cruiser) plane, came down midway on the runway.

When his brakes failed to stop the craft, Dr. Jobe nosed it over and tried to groundloop it. He failed, however, and the plane plowed off the end of the runway.

Good Omens Seen For U. S. Industry

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Government economists found good omens for the future today in surveys along the nation's industrial front.

These reports included:
1. A new peacetime production record in October—almost double the pre-war average.
2. Fewer strikes the first 10 months of 1948 than in the two preceding years.
3. An 11 per cent drop in prices of farm products since January's postwar peak.

Although there were some dark spots on the industrial picture the total effect appeared cheering.

In sizing up the production records, the Federal Reserve Board said last night that last month's output boosted its index three points to a level 95 per cent above the 1935-39 average. The previous high was February's 94 per cent, but the gauge fell to 87 per cent in April and July.

Production of manufactured goods alone, the board said, better than doubled the pre-war mark, with durable items turned out at a rate 130 per cent above the pre-war scale and non-durable goods produced at a 79 per cent clip.

The federal reserve credited the record October upswing mainly to new production marks in the steel and automobile industries.

The board noted, however, that department store sales were not making their usual seasonal rise and that "prices of foods and some other products declined."

These price drops, while cheering to housewives, have been worrying some economists who think they may be the forerunners of a break similar to the post-war collapse of 1920-21.

Flood Cuts Water Supply In Georgia
Atlanta, Nov. 30 (AP)—Georgians were confronted with a power shortage today as flood waters and mechanical failures disrupted steam and hydro-electric production.

Industries at Macon, Ga., were ordered ironically, to halt the use of water as the surging Ocmulgee River put five of the city's 10 pumping station filters out of operation.

Engineers estimated electricity production at the major river plants had been cut 25 per cent because of flood conditions. They said the shortage was caused primarily by high waters which reduced the fall necessary for high electric production at dams in North Georgia.

The Georgia Power company issued a state-wide appeal for its users to curtail electric consumption as much as possible during the peak hours of 10 a. m. to 12 noon and 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

In Atlanta gasoline buses were being substituted for electric-powered track less trolleys to conserve power.

Meanwhile, river flood crests continued to move downstream, carrying the threat to middle and southern areas of Georgia and Alabama.

Transportation in the flood sector was still far from normal.

Near-freezing weather eased the flood threat to Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and the Carolinas but it promised additional discomfort to many persons already left homeless.

Stinson production was halted last summer.

Atlantic Shipping Returns To Normal; Rail Embargo Lifts

West Coast Waterfront Lull Continues
By The Associated Press
Shipping operations along the eastern Atlantic coast appeared headed back to normal today as the railroad freight embargo was lifted in eight cities. But the lull in waterfront business along the West Coast for the last three months due to strikes continued.

The embargo on freight intended for export or coastwise movement was lifted by the Association of American Railroads in eight ports—New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Hampton roads, Va., Wilmington, Del., Port Newark, N. J., and Portland, Me.

Most of the 65,000 AFL Longshoremen on strike for 18 days at East Coast ports returned to work yesterday after approving a wage increase of 13 cents an hour for day work and 19½ cents for night and holiday work. About 250 ships had been tied up in New York.

Three Unions Balk
Only one of the four unions in the Pacific Coast maritime strike, the CIO Longshoremen, have ratified a new contract. The other three seagoing unions have not reached agreement with employers. A four union is involved in a jurisdictional dispute.

Agreements still have not been reached between Pacific American Shipowners Association and the three striking unions, the Independent Marine Firemen, the CIO Marine Cooks and the CIO Radio Operators. The AFL Sailors' Union of the Pacific, not on strike but made idle by the shipping tieup, has insisted it be guaranteed jurisdiction over certain jobs and be granted certain wage increase before members return to work.

In another labor development, members of a New York Teamsters Union local who returned to their jobs yesterday after a week-long strike, have voted to accept a straight pay raise of 22½ cents an hour. They had the alternative of a pay boost of 17½ cents an hour plus welfare and insurance benefits. The employers had agreed to either plan the union men voted. The strike by the local, which claims 3,500 members, had tied up about one third of the city's general trucking business.

Jap Criminals Get Respite From Noose

Appeals Of Two Men Go To U. S. Supreme Court
By RUSSELL BRINES
Tokyo, Nov. 30 (AP)—Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and six other top Japanese warmakers won an eleventh hour respite today from the hangman's noose.

General Douglas MacArthur said they would "certainly not" be executed until the Supreme Court of the United States has acted on appeals by two of the condemned men.

The next scheduled meeting of the Supreme Court is December 6.

(If the Supreme Court rejects the appeal next Monday, as it did a similar petition by German war criminals, Japan's warmakers could be hanged Dec. 7 on the seventh anniversary of Pearl Harbor.)

The appeals from the international military tribunal's verdict were filed in Washington yesterday in behalf of former Premier Koki Hirota, who helped plot Japan's pre-Pearl Harbor war plans, and Gen. Kenji Doihara, known to the Chinese as the "Bird of Evil Omen."

A Japan religious federation delegation handed allied headquarters religious section a petition today asking that the bodies of all seven condemned men be returned to their families after the execution. This was a protest against the army's plans to dispose of the ashes secretly. The federation includes all faiths in Japan—Shinto, Buddhist, Protestant, Catholic.

Settlement Near In Wage Dispute Of Michigan Bell
Detroit, Nov. 29 (AP)—An agreement "in principle" on a fact-finding panel's report brought the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. wage dispute a step nearer settlement today.

This left only details of a new contract to be worked out by the company and the Communications Workers of America (Ind.).

The agreement "in principle" was announced jointly yesterday by Michigan Bell and the CWA's Division 44, representing 10,000 switchboard operators and accounting employees.

Both company and union sources said, however, that it probably would take a day or two at least to complete details of the complex wage structure.

Berlin Communists Establish Separate Government In City

Berlin, Nov. 30 (AP)—Russian-backed Berlin Communists established a separate city government today in opposition to the elected anti-Communist administration.

The Communists made virtually complete the political division between eastern and western Berlin. A new anti-Communist government to administer the western sectors of the city—occupied by the United States, Britain and France—will be chosen in elections Sunday.

The Russians have forbidden voting in their sector of the city and the Communists have ordered their followers to boycott the election.

The Communists, joined by a few splinter elements from other parties, set up their government at a mass meeting in the Soviet sector of the city.

The rally was called with the avowed aim of taking "decisive measures for the protection of a United Berlin"—apparently a move to gain control of the whole western sectors, where about two-thirds of all Berliners live.

An outdoor demonstration of workers marching along Unter den Linden in the Soviet sector was arranged to follow the rally.

The elected city government, minus the Communist elements, sits now in the British sector of Berlin because Soviet and Communist pressure tactics made impractical the continued use of the city hall in the Soviet sector.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, told newsmen in Frankfurt yesterday he expected "no trouble that we can't take care of" from the Communists on election day.

Deer Season Closes With Reduced Kill
Hunt For Lost Champion Boy Hunter Given Up
(By The Associated Press)
With none of the fanfare of its opening, Michigan's deer hunting season of 1948 trudged through its closing hours today.

It had been a less perilous experience for the army of hunters, judging from a death rate well under last year, and possibly also less successful.

Preliminary reports indicate that the deer kill will run below that of 1947.

The deaths of ten hunters from gunfire have been recorded. This compares to the 18 killed last year, a fatality toll equalled only in 1943.

As the hunting army thinned out to only an isolated few the long search for 15-year-old Robert LaPine was called off.

Conservation officers and state police despaired of finding the Champion boy after an unremitting hunt of ten days. He was lost in Marquette county woods.

Officers said the search was being abandoned because of weather conditions. The depth of snow in the vicinity where Robert was seen last made recovery of a lost body almost impossible they said.

This was the first admission by authorities that Robert was presumed to have lost his life. He would have been 16 years old last Friday.

Old Lansing Bribe Cases Buttoned Up

Ex-Solon Rewarded For Aiding Grand Jury

Lansing, Nov. 30 (AP)—Judge Louis E. Coash, state grand juror, today placed former State Senator Chester M. Howell (R-Saginaw) on two years probation and assessed $1,500 costs on his guilty plea to charges of attempting to corrupt the 1939 legislature.

Sentencing was delayed because he was assisting the grand jury in other cases which only recently have been finally disposed of in the state supreme court.

Judge Coash said that in passing sentence he had "taken into consideration your assistance to this grand jury."

The judge added that the court realized that the charge had been "hanging over your head for four years." A review of Howell's past history showed no other criminal record, the judge said.

Howell was named with 12 co-defendants in a warrant issued by the grand jury Dec. 6, 1944, charging acceptance and payment of "several thousand dollars of graft and bribes to influence action on a bill designed to regulate the practice of naturopathy."

He pleaded guilty Dec. 8, 1944, two hours after demanding examination. He had been elected for the Senate term starting Jan. 1, 1945, but resigned his seat Jan. 3.

Howell, now 66, had a long career as a state legislator. He was elected as a representative in 1923 and 1925 and as a state senator in 1927, 1929, 1931, 1933 and 1943.

Heiress To Tobacco Millions Marries
Anne Reynolds, 18, Weds Childhood Sweetheart

Bennettsville, S. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—A teen age multi-million dollar heiress once known as "the richest baby in the world" and her childhood sweetheart nicknamed "Junebug" honeymooned today.

Anne Cannon Reynolds, attractive 18-year-old heiress to textile and tobacco millions, and Lloyd Patrick Tate, a North Carolina sportsman, were quietly married here yesterday by Probate Judge John F. Kinney. The groom is 22.

Then before anyone in this small South Carolina city knew their full identities, they slipped away for a wedding trip to the winter home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Cannon, at Ponce de Leon, Fla.

The bride is the daughter of the late Z. Smith Reynolds, scion of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco empire, and Mrs. Lindsay Plumly, the former Anne Cannon Reynolds who is an heiress of the Cannon family, nationally known textile manufacturers at Kannapolis, N. C.

Anne, now a student at Duke University following her graduation from an exclusive school in Florida, received $9,000,000 of her father's estate following his death from a pistol wound in 1932.

He was shot while a party was in progress at his palatial home at Winston-Salem, N. C. Official responsibility for the shooting was never placed.

The new draft calls are far below the 30,000 a month average which Army Secretary Royall estimated last June when plans were being made for the peacetime draft.

Railroad Flagman Loses Feet Trying To Save Woman, 87

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—A 45-year-old railroad flagman suffered the loss of both feet in a vain effort to save the life of an aged blind and partly deaf woman.

William Marshal Weaver's feet were severed yesterday when he made a desperate attempt to pull Mrs. Wilhelmina R. Wittigschlager from the path of a Florida east coast railroad freight train.

Witnesses told police the 87-year-old woman apparently did not hear the train whistle and walked onto the track.

Weaver ran after her and sought to pull her to safety, but both fell. Weaver's feet lay across a rail and were severed. The woman was decapitated.

Russia Accepts New Offer To Mediate Dispute In Germany

Neutral Commission To Work Out Details

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
Paris, Nov. 30 (AP)—A new plan for mediation of the Berlin crisis, devised by a man who wouldn't give up, appears assured of a Big Four trial.

Diplomatic progress on this plan was reported here today even as German Communists massed their strength for an apparent attempt to seize political control of all Berlin.

Juan A. Bramuglia, Argentine foreign minister and retiring president of the United Nations Security Council, is the author.

The plan calls for a neutral commission of experts to handle the technical and procedural phases of the East-West conflict over dual currency and the Russian land blockade.

Nations Save Face
The United States, Britain, France and Russia would assign their own representatives to stand by in Paris for 30 days to give whatever aid the expert commission might require.

The plan appears intended to save face for all.

Bramuglia had been seeking, and failing, to bring the Big Four together ever since the Security Council voted Oct. 5 to air the charge of the United States, Britain and France that the Russian blockade was a threat to peace.

Bramuglia announced Russia agreed to his new plan last night and that he expected formal acceptance from the United States, Britain and France today.

They have already accepted in principle. He said he hopes the new mediation effort can get under way immediately. He steps down as president of the Security Council at midnight. His successor is Fernand Van Lagenhove of Belgium, the December president of the council.

Through Bramuglia's olive branch campaign, technical problems would be cleared away and the quarrel would be reduced largely to political differences.

Both Sides Yield
This does not mean the situation could not flare up again.

Nor is eventual success of the experts' study assured.

But Bramuglia, backed by the delegates of five other nations on the Security Council, has succeeded in winning concessions

Call For January Draft Cut In Two; Army Lacks Money

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The army today cut in half its proposed January draft call for 20,000 men. Lack of money was given as the reason.

At the same time, the army announced the February call would be for only 5,000 men.

"The reductions were necessitated by the limitation of the military budget for fiscal 1950 to $15,000,000,000 of which $800,000,000 are for stock-piling of strategic raw materials," the national military establishment said in a statement announcing the army plans.

The new draft calls are far below the 30,000 a month average which Army Secretary Royall estimated last June when plans were being made for the peacetime draft.

The first call for November was 10,000 and the December call 15,000.

DEER HUNTING SEASON ENDED

Hunters' Success Only Average In U. P.

The 1948 deer hunting season ends this evening, with hunters chalking up varied reactions of good and bad—depending upon their success.

The number of hunters in the Upper Peninsula was estimated to be about the same as last year, with the number of bucks killed averaging about the same as last year, according to unofficial estimates. Most downstate and outstate hunters left the Upper Peninsula when heavy snow threatened to block side roads about mid-season.

Local hunters had the woods pretty much to themselves the past few days, but luck was spotty. Hunters still in camp have 48 hours after the season closes to transport their bucks to their destination. Venison may be kept 60 days after the close of the season, and longer only after obtaining a special permit.

In the Upper Peninsula, the State Conservation Department reported that skies were overcast and temperatures ranged from 27 to 30 degrees for the last day of hunting.

A fall of one to two inches of snow was recorded. Hunting conditions were only fair and the press of hunters in the area was light.

At the last count, the department reported that 9,092 deer were taken back across the straits. Hunters also carried back 270 bear, 30 coyotes, 18 fox, 16 bobcat and six wolves.

Germans Have Piracy Dispute

Btrlin (AP)—There's a small war of words going on between the German fishermen of the Russian occupation zone and those of the British zone. The Russian zone fishermen are accusing their western countrymen of "piracy" in the Baltic fishing fields. They claim the westerners are coming within the three mile limit of Soviet zone ports and stealing eastern nets.

Recently a group of fishermen from Mecklenburg, Soviet zone, got together for a protest meeting. They adopted a resolution demanding "adoption of measures to stop this piracy" which they claimed was "hateful action intended to sabotage our tireless efforts at reconstruction and raising our living standard."

Carlo Buonaparte, an untitled smalltown Corsican lawyer, was the father of an emperor (Napoleon I), three kings, a queen and two duchesses.

SUPREME COURT DENIES APPEAL

Upholds $1,096 Judgment Of Delta Court Jury

The Michigan supreme court has affirmed a verdict of a Delta county circuit court jury for a judgment of $1,096.35 against Matchel Boiscclair of Escanaba. The supreme court affirmed the judgment against the Escanaba woman and that the plaintiff also recover costs of the case.

The case was appealed to the supreme court after a Delta circuit court jury had, on Oct. 29, 1947, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, Exilda Mineau of Gladstone, administratrix of the estate of Mary Baudry, deceased.

According to the information in the case, Mary Baudry had sold her home in Gladstone and moved to Escanaba to live with her sister, Matchel Boiscclair, during her last illness. The sister received money from Mary Baudry, and the action to recover this sum for the estate of Mary Baudry was begun in the name of Exilda Mineau, the administratrix.

The Delta county circuit court jury found for the plaintiff, in effect holding that the money was to go to the estate, now in the process of being probated.

In one greeting-card publishing house here cards for sending to mamas-by-marriage are the most sedate and polite—and there is only one of them. It says, with cautious civility: "Birthday greetings to my mother-in-law."

Posse Searches For Ingallston Man, 79

Officers and volunteers numbering more than 10 today continued their search for Albert Kratochvil, 79, of Ingallston township, Menominee county, who has been missing since 2 p. m. Monday.

State police of the Gladstone post said the aged man lived during the winter months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sylvester of Cedar River Star Route. He left the Sylvester home yesterday afternoon carrying a 22 caliber rifle.

Fears for his safety were aroused late yesterday when he failed to return. State police, Menominee sheriff's officers, volunteers, and a conservation officer of Stephentown were in the posse that searched the Ingallston township area today.

Scientists Stumped By Ancient Animal Trail in Sandstone

Marienville, Pa. (AP)—A group of scientists are trying to track down an animal they believe may pre-date the dinosaur by from 150 to 300 million years.

Dr. J. Leroy Kay, curator of vertebrate paleontology of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh, said he and the other scientists are stumped as to the animal's identity.

The only thing they are sure of at the present, he said, is that the animal left 20 pairs of matching three-toed footprints stretching across a mammoth piece of what is now sandstone.

"The geological formation indicates it must have been an amphibious animal," said Dr. Kay after leading a group of museum experts out to Elk county to view the tracks. "The reptiles such as the dinosaurs didn't come until much later—but I've never seen anything like them before."

Dr. Kay, who had done much dinosaur hunting, said the rock formation was of the Pennsylvania system "which means the tracks were made probably 300 million years before the dinosaur lived."

The scientists plan to peel off a layer of the sandstone formation, make it back to the museum with them and study it further in an attempt to establish the identity of the mysterious animal.

Reds Limit Their Party Membership

Prague (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist party has put the brakes on would-be members. It demands a two-year tryout period from anyone, unless he is a worker or a peasant laborer. Then he has to wait only one year before it is decided whether he can wear a party button and get all the benefits of being a member of the country's leading party.

The central committee decided on that, the official newspaper Rude Pravo said, to prevent careerists, opportunists and enemies from becoming members of the party in order to take personal advantage of it.

In the try-out period, every phase of the candidate's personal as well as professional life will be closely scrutinized, to determine if he is worthy of the place he seeks. The new step is in addition to the verification process which extends from October through December and which may result in a lot of party brethren being cast out unless they can prove they are loyal Communists.

Even Communist party big shots and policy makers and members of the government have to be verified. They have to go back to the municipal party council where they are listed as plain members and face criticism of their policy.

The former Austrian provinces of Trent and Alto Adige were balloting for a 46-seat regional council. The Communist party won only two seats and the Socialist allies three.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrats won 17 seats. The Volkspartei made up of German-speaking South Tyroleans, won 13. A dissident Catholic group called the party of Trent received four, the anti-Communist Socialists, three, and four small anti-Communist parties, one seat each.

Rare Birth Kills Milwaukee Mother

The 36-year-old woman, mother of four other children, had been receiving blood transfusion almost daily since a caesarean section revealed the condition to surgeons.

At the same time the Philadelphia Eagles, winner of the National football league eastern title, announced they would like him to put his name on a contract when he graduates next spring.

Czechs Will See Films From U. S.

Prague (AP)—Czechoslovak film goers finally have been promised they can see "The Best Years of Our Lives" which won a prize for direction at the Czechoslovak film festival last summer. It is one of the ten American films earmarked for showing here after recent conversations of Eric Johnston, of the Motion Picture Export Association, during a brief stopover in Prague. The pictures will be shown under a loose agreement extending an old pact until a new agreement can be signed.

Others include Robin Hood Gulliver's Travels, Arabian Nights, and Rene Clair's "It Happened Tomorrow." The first three are color films.

The negotiations deallocked over the principle of reciprocity Czech film sources said. Since Czechoslovakia is a film exporting country itself, it would like an even exchange.

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 30 (AP)—Fifty-five more officers and men of the Korean army have been shot to death for participating in the October 20 mutiny against the young republic.

A Korean army spokesman announced today the 55 were executed last Saturday at Taejon 95 miles southeast of Seoul. He said about half as many others were executed earlier for participating in the Communist inspired rebellion.

Army headquarters said that altogether 600 men, including 50 civilians, have been tried for participating in the abortive revolt. Nine hundred more await trial.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
New York, Nov. 30. (AP)—The hottest rookie prospect on the world champion Cleveland Indians squad next spring may be third baseman, Fred Marsh, who hit .305 for Oklahoma City last summer. . . Fred is a protégé of Cy Slapnicka, who hung the same "can't miss" tag on him that he once hung by Bob Feller. . . Of course, the Indians have a fair country third baseman in Ken Keltner, but Marsh's record may be the reason why Ken recently remarked: "I've got a sneaking suspicion that a guy named Keltner might go some place in a big deal before too long a time."

Carriers Request 13 Percent Raise In Freight Rates

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission opens public hearings today on the railroads' plea for another 13 per cent freight rate increase.

The carriers want immediate authority to advance rates eight per cent, then boost them to 13 per cent after commission study of current earnings records.

The railroads contend that despite postwar freight rate increases of around 40 per cent, revenues are still failing to keep pace with mounting operating costs.

The request for a 13 per cent boost was filed in conjunction with recent wage increases.

Domestic water carriers have notified the ICC that if rail rates are advanced, they also will expect increases on ship and barge freight.

Writ For Release From Prison Asked By Jake The Barber

Cincinnati, Nov. 30 (AP)—John (Jake the Barber) Factor, inmate of the federal detention farm at Milan, Mich., is asking again for his release from a ten-year mail fraud sentence.

Factor has asked the U. S. court of appeals sixth circuit to grant his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

His application to the U. S. court in Detroit was denied several months ago.

In his appeal, Factor said his guilty plea in the case was entered to avoid public trial at a time when he was sought by two members of the Toughy gang, two of whom escaped from Joliet (Ill.) prison.

Factor was sentenced and fined $10,000 after pleading guilty to the charges at Cedar Rapids, Ia., in February, 1943.

Traffic in Europe Fouled Up By Fog

London, Nov. 30 (AP)—The most persistent fog in a decade fouled up western Europe again today.

The murky cut visibility to a few yards, grounded planes, slowed trains and snarled automobile traffic from the fourth successive day.

For the third time in three days it forced postponement of the sailing of the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth, already 13 days behind schedule on its Southampton to New York run.

It stopped the Berlin air lift and made millions late for work.

Weather forecasters said there was little prospect of the fog lifting within the next 24 to 48 hours.

The fog blanket extended from the Baltic to Portugal. Most of France and Germany were blacked out.

Russia Accepts Plan To Mediate Berlin Troubles

from both the East and the West. Lined up with Argentina in the mediation effort are China, Belgium, Colombia, Syria and Canada. The experts of these six would make up the study commission.

The Big Three western powers have long insisted they will not negotiate with the Russians under the duress of the blockade of western Berlin, which Russia imposed in June after western marks were introduced in the western sectors.

Bramuglia got past this by leaving the "negotiations" to neutrals.

Russia has denied the competence of the Security Council, or any other U. N. organ, to decide matters connected with Germany. Bramuglia's implied answer was that the expert commission will be an unofficial agency, operating outside the council.

Secret Cave Church Draws Millions Of Russian Followers

Duesseldorf, Germany, Nov. 30 (AP)—A Jesuit priest said yesterday he had made a secret mission to Russia and discovered there a "cave church" with millions of followers.

Rev. Kurz Szeckalla declared in an interview his visit to the Soviet Union in disguise revealed that a vast underground Christian movement existed, but that its leaders were vigorously persecuted by Soviet authorities.

The priest's story was vouched for by the office of Josef Cardinal Frings, archbishop of Cologne. Church officials said his visit to Russia to contact Christians there was made under Roman Catholic church orders.

Father Szeckalla said he discovered Christians of all faiths opposed to what he called "the Moscow-controlled Orthodox church."

He added that a similar breakaway Orthodox church has been formed by Slavic people in the displaced persons camps of western Germany.

Casanova spoke at a meeting of the Football Writers Association yesterday.

Three Boys Admit Slaying At Gaylord As Mothers Weep

Gaylord, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—The adolescent bravado of three boys held in a slaying finally cracked yesterday.

Tears ran as the boys met their parents in the chambers of Probate Judge Frank Libeke, who is going to hold a hearing in their case next week.

The boys apparently couldn't stand their mothers' weeping.

Richard Damer, 13, and his brother, Harry, 10, along with Robert Black, 12, have admitted according to authorities, the slaying of Arthur King, 66, in the woods Nov. 18.

Judge Libeke consulted with the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Damer, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Black.

He informed them of the maximum present penalty for the boys—detention as juvenile delinquents until they are 17 years of age.

Year-Round Plane Service Opposed By Beaver Island

Petoskey, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—Residents of Beaver Island continued their fight here today against a proposal for a year-around link with the mainland by air.

They are fearful that it would put the present boat service out of business.

The Civil Aeronautics Board opened a hearing yesterday on an application by Leslie D. Emery, Owosso, for a certificate to carry mail and passengers by air the 20 miles from here to the Lake Michigan island.

Beaver Island residents opposing the application, cite their dependence on the boat service for bringing heavy goods from the mainland and for the return movement of lumber and fish.

They assert the boat provides adequate mail and passenger service, and believe tourist travel might be hurt if plane service makes operation of the boat unprofitable.

Blast Jolts Dock Area At Portland; Engineer Burned

Portland, Ore., Nov. 30 (AP)—An explosion shattered a frame building and shook a large area of the waterfront industrial area last night, but only one person was injured.

Walter G. Pratt, 47, a port engineer, suffered burns of the face and hands and severe shock.

The building erupted in a ball of fire as the blast shattered it into splinters. The impact was felt over a four square mile area.

Nearby stacked lumber caught fire but firemen had the half block burning zone under control in an hour.

Kratt was quoted by Harbor Patrol Capt. Carl Prehn as saying he entered the Portland Dock Commission office and smelled gas. When he flipped on a basement light switch to investigate the odor, the building blew up.

Damage was estimated by port authorities at under $75,000.

It's Up To Them

THE HOUGHTON MINING GAZETTE recently gave front-page play to some remarks made at a luncheon meeting of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce by Waino Komula, well known Copper Country logger, who urged that the region get busy on an industrial development program.

Waino Komula is somewhat of a fabulous character in the Copper Country. A husky, ruddy-faced Finnish-American in his mid-forties, Komula was born in the Copper Country and apparently wants to stay there and see it prosper. A tractor salesman before the war, he went in for "hot logging" on Copper Range company timber lands and began producing much needed veneer logs and other forest products to throw at the Nazis and Japs. Within a short time, he had expanded into a big-time logging operation. And he got the timber out in record time. A man of stupendous energy, Waino gets things done.

Now Waino Komula feels that the Copper Country should go out after new industries to take up the slack caused by the decline in the mining industry. He envisions opportunities for various wood-working plants to utilize the timber resources of the region. A believer in sustained yield lumbering, he feels that the Copper Country woods could support new wood industries indefinitely. In his talk to the Hancock group, he advocated greater utilization of the cull wood that goes to waste in the region.

Greater efforts to expand the copper and other metal industries in the Copper Country were urged by Komula. He sees possibilities for developing the region's agriculture.

Finally, Waino Komula recommended that an industrial committee be appointed to get some action. Here's an idea for the Copper Country. Organize that committee and put Waino at the head of it. We'll wager he'll start something in the right direction.

Fight Must Continue

THE ANNUAL CAMPAIGN for the sale of Christmas seals to finance the fight against tuberculosis got under way last week and will continue until Christmas day.

The double-barred cross on the Christmas seal has become a familiar symbol in the past four decades. It is closely identified with the Christmas season when the spirit of friendship and giving to others prevails. Those who buy the batch of Christmas seals are expressing this spirit for they are actually giving of their funds so that others may enjoy a healthful life.

Funds derived from the sale of Christmas seals are used for conducting the far-flung educational campaign against tuberculosis. Through various activities, the Michigan Tuberculosis association arouses the public to an understanding of the need for better and more extensive sanatorium facilities for the care of tuberculosis sufferers. It promotes X-ray examinations so that the disease might be discovered before it gains appreciable headway. Early detection of signs of tuberculosis is the secret of the winning fight against this disease.

Great progress has been made in Michigan. In the past 40 years, the annual death rate from tuberculosis has declined from 99.9 per 100,000 population to 27.1, a reduction of nearly three-fourths. But the battle is not won yet. Tuberculosis still takes a toll of 1,750 lives yearly in Michigan, more than all other communicable diseases combined.

The important program of the Michigan Tuberculosis association still needs and deserves the public's support.

Iron Ore Getting Lean

DURING THE PAST several years, we have been hearing and reading conflicting statements on the status of high grade iron ore reserves in the Lake Superior region.

While the hectic digging for iron ore was going on during World War II, eminent geologists predicted that the rich resources of the famous Mesabi range would not last much more than 10 years at the current rate of extraction. But there were others who preferred to paint a rosy picture. It is all right, of course, to be optimistic, but at the same time one must face the facts.

There are developments going on that indicate that the supply of high grade iron ore in the Lake Superior region is getting lean. Witness the scramble on the part of the large iron and steel corporations to locate sources of supply abroad, and the stepping up of research into the possible utilization of low grade ores.

The steel industry is taking no chances. The M. A. Hanna company sometime ago started explorations in the Labrador and Quebec regions, and already has found an estimated 150,000,000 tons of high grade iron ore. This explains the recent reversal in attitude toward the long-opposed St. Lawrence seaway project on the part of the Hanna company and other steel interests.

The United States Steel corporation plans to import 50,000 tons of ore yearly from Brazil. The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company, a subsidiary of Big Steel, is importing about 50,000 tons from Sweden. Bethlehem Steel, which has been importing iron ore of late from Chile and Sweden, will begin mining next year in Venezuela.

Foreign importations of ore may not set well with the people who make their living at mining iron ore in Upper Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, but there are some greater considerations. The imports will conserve the rapidly dwindling supply of high grade domestic ore in event of some future national emergency. At the same time, consolation may be derived from the fact that research is being directed toward economic utilization of the limitless supply of low grade ores in the Lake Superior region.

Railroads Go Diesel

THE SOO LINE RAILWAY announced recently that it had placed orders for nine Diesel freight locomotives and two Diesel switchers for delivery the latter part of next year. This will increase the Soo Line's Diesel equipment to 52 locomotives.

The Soo Line is joining with other American railroads in the trend toward Dieselization of its motive power equipment. John L. Lewis and his coal strikes played a part in the shift from the coal burning engines, but this has not been the chief consideration. For certain types of service, the Diesels have been found more economical in the long run.

Coal resources in the country are still abundant, much more plentiful than fuel oil. The trend toward Diesels is cause of much concern to the Eastern railroads who derive a large portion of their revenue from the hauling of coal and in some instances have a financial interest in the mines.

Engineering experts of these coal-hauling railroads and manufacturers have been busily engaged for the several years in the development of more efficient coal burning engines. Much progress has been made in this field, all of which will be heart-warming to old-time railroad fans whose first and only love will be for the steam locomotive. Diesels may be efficient, but they're not as romantic as the coal-burning Juggernauts.

MARQUETTE'S NEW WARDEN (Grand Rapids Press)

At least one state prison warden post appears taken care of with the announcement by Corrections Director Joseph W. Sanford that Emery E. Jacques has been permanently appointed to run Marquette prison.

On the record Jacques should make a competent prison administrator. As a parole officer and board member he has been in the corrections system long enough to know the ins and outs. His most serious handicap is likely to be a lack of experience in the prisons. Under the Sanford plan of a strong centralized prison control in the hands of the corrections director, the lack wouldn't be so significant. But there is a strong possibility that the corrections department will get another overhauling when the new state administration takes office next year. Gov.-elect Williams already has said that he favors going back to the setup which existed prior to the change in November, 1947. Presumably that would mean abandoning the Sanford idea in favor of increased authority for the individual wardens.

To judge from what Sanford has said, however, Jacques has made an earnest effort to improve conditions at Marquette in the few months he has served there as temporary warden. By the time any change can be made in the corrections setup, he will have had fairly ample time in which to prove his ability. And since the job is under civil service he won't have to worry about playing politics with anyone either in the present or future administrations.

Good prison wardens are hard to find. There are so few of them around the country it probably would be wise for any corrections department to set up a sort of on-the-job training plan to assure an adequate future supply. In fact the same might be said with reference to almost every important corrections job. Making Jacques the warden at Marquette could prove a wholesome thing for the entire Michigan system. He has come up through the corrections system—a fact which should do something for morale in the department. For the department's sake, as well as Jacques', champions of a good state penal system will hope that the new warden makes good.

ABOUT A COMMON ERROR

Teachers and students of English (and all the rest of us for that matter) will find today's column worthy of a little study. Clip it, digest it, and pass it along to a friend.

It is a common error to use adverbs in constructions that call for adjectives. Example: "He stood smilingly and waited for an answer."

Now "smilingly" is an adverb, and in the sentence quoted it modifies the verb "stood." A moment's reflection will show that a person cannot stand smilingly any more than he can stand frowningly. It simply doesn't make sense.

But the sentence will make sense if the adverb is exchanged for the adjective "smiling," thus: "He stood smiling and waited for an answer."

Rule: The word following the verb should be an adjective if it describes the subject; it modifies the action of the verb, it should be an adverb.

Hence, "smiling," the adjective, clearly

Television Has Great Future

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—We have a new television set at our house. Whether it is just another complex toy or the revolution in entertainment and communication that many proclaim it to be, we haven't yet been able to decide.

No one can doubt the potentialities. They are breath-taking. But then, so were the potentialities of radio and too often they seem to have been drowned in the strident laughter of studio audiences cued to respond to the tenth repetition of a joke that wasn't very good the first time it was used.

Much of what comes over television today is radio with sight added. That is, to be sure, pretty startling. The news reels on video, for example, sometimes show in the evening news events that happened the same day.

For the most part, however, the kind of imagination required to take advantage of this amazing new technology has not yet been forthcoming. Or it may be more accurate to say that the viewer (we need a whole new vocabulary) see little evidence of it.

Yet I am inclined to believe that the revolution is already in progress. Here is a small bit of documentation pointing in that direction.

100-MILE RECEPTION

The other day I met a pair of television fans. Their experience, I would guess, is typical of what is happening to thousands of people and what will happen in the next two to four years to millions.

This husband and wife live in a Pennsylvania town of about 50,000 which is 100 miles from Philadelphia. There is no television station in the town.

Last spring Mr. and Mrs. Jones became convinced, from the experience of a tavern keeper in their town, that they could get television from a distance of 100 miles. They went to Philadelphia to buy a set and there they were told not to waste their money, since the receiving range was at the outside 25 to 30 miles.

They persisted and last May a set was installed in their home, the first set in any home in the town. On one channel the image comes through as clearly and as distinctly as it does in Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Jones having made careful comparisons on visits to the city.

They, too, had thought it might be just a novelty of which they would soon grow tired. But seven months have gone by and they are just as eager to get into the living room after supper as they were the first week.

Besides the good channel, they get images of varying distinctness and clarity on two other channels. Now and then they have successfully picked up Baltimore, which is nearly 200 air miles away.

They talk about the performers and commentators they see and hear as though they were personal friends. They are enthusiastic over programs like "Author Meets The Critic" and a popular science program originating in Philadelphia. They follow most sports except wrestling, which they find boring and repetitious.

STAYED AWAY FROM MOVIES And here comes the revolution. In the seven months they have had their set, they have gone to the movies twice. Normal for the pre-television era was about three times a month, or 21 times against two times.

What is more, the Joneses no longer have very much interest in the radio programs that used to be their favorites. Sound without sight does not hold them.

Word of the success of their experiment has got around. Today television sets are selling like hot cakes in their town.

Both on the technical and the program side, television is a squawking infant. But like the horseless carriage, it seems to be here to stay and it promises to work undreamed-of changes in our way of life.

We, the public, have it within our power to shape this instrument for good or evil if we will only voice our likes and dislikes and voice them vehemently. Mere passive acceptance of whatever comes along is certainly not enough.

describes the subject "he"—it states that he was smiling as he stood and waited for an answer.

Wrong: "I'm glad you are safely at home." No. "Are" is a form of the verb to be. How can one "e" safely? One cannot, of course. But one can "be" safe. Hence: I'm glad you are safe at home.

Wrong: "They fell helplessly into the sea." It wasn't the fall that was helpless—it was they who fell. Therefore: They fell helplessly into the sea (they fell into the sea and were helpless).

Wrong: "The roses smell sweetly." No; it isn't the smelling that is sweet; it is the roses. Hence: The roses smell sweet.

Wrong: "The mountain stands immovably." It isn't the standing that is immovable; it is the mountain. Correct: The mountain stands immovable.

Rule: After such verbs as appear, be, seem, smell, sound, taste, feel, look, etc., use an adjective, and not an adverb, in describing the subject.

Wrong: "The plan appears sensibly to me." Right: The plan appears sensible to me.

Wrong: "The wind sounds dangerously." Right: The wind sounds dangerous.

Wrong: "I feel badly about it." This error appears constantly in print and occurs too frequently on the radio. If you feel badly, your sense of touch is defective, or you are paralyzed. Correct: I feel bad about it (I have a bad feeling about it).

That's the Trouble With Being a Miracle Man

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

HE ALSO HELPED—To keep the record straight, Ed Perry of Bay View telephoned the other day to give us additional information on the application of first aid to Walter Anderson whose arm was severed in a traffic accident a couple weeks ago.

Perry, who is a Soo Line foreman, says the accident happened in front of his home, and that he telephoned for an ambulance.

Perry reported that he "gave those two young chaps" his big red bandana handkerchief and told them to put it around the stump of Anderson's arm and pull it tight. The "two young chaps" are Thomas Car-mody Jr. of Escanaba and Iver Ingebrigtsen of Wells, whose names have been mentioned in a previous column.

The incident is a dramatic example of the value of first aid knowledge—even a little knowledge. The Delta county Chapter, American Red Cross, is offering first aid courses to persons who are interested. If you are interested, contact Miss Victoria Mroczkowski at the Red Cross office in Escanaba.

SEQUEL—Here's a follow-up report on the trapping activities of Mrs. Myra Thill of Fayette, who is trapping predators for bounty in that area.

"So far I have trapped four coyotes, two red fox, and a big wolf," Mrs. Thill writes.

There is only slight value in the pelts, but the bounties paid (depending on the sex of the animals) would be approximately $135. Mrs. Thill makes trapping a pastime and not a business. She is particularly proud of bagging the big timber wolf.

VERY REMOTE—There are no known deposits of pitchblende, the source of radium and uranium, in Michigan.

Yet inquiries continue to be made to the state by persons who have been excited by the recent "discovery" of pitchblende in Canada along the shore of Lake Superior north of Sault Ste. Marie. We have put "discovery" in quotes because as early as 1946 geologists reported they had found pitchblende in that area.

In Michigan, however, there is but one area where pitchblende might possibly be found, state geologists say. That is in the area west of Marquette, where the rocks are similar to those on the Lake Superior shore north of Sault Ste. Marie.

"A remote possibility of discovery cannot be ruled out in this region," geologists report cautiously.

That will probably be sufficient, however, to set amateur—and some professional—prospectors to work in the hope of a strike.

EXPERIMENT—Radiant heat produced by electricity may be the answer to the problem of keeping concrete highways clear of dangerous ice. The state highway department is now experimenting with a 1,000-foot strip of electrically heated pavement near Ferndale.

The cost, says the state highway department, will be "far lower than the cost of maintaining present snow removal equipment, depreciation of the equipment, fuel for the huge motors.

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Mrs. Lillian H. Reynolds has returned from Chicago where she attended the wedding of her daughter, Eileen Adele, to Bernard Tiffany Doan on Thanksgiving Day.

Gladstone—Mrs. Lawrence Burr, Gladstone Route One, shot a 325-pound bear while hunting near her home Nov. 27.

Escanaba—Taylor M. Peterson, formerly of Escanaba, was recently appointed to the city council of Ontario, Calif.

Escanaba—Joseph Girard and Roach Kidd, Escanaba youths who enlisted in the International Brigade to fight for the Loyalists in Spain, are expected to return to Escanaba soon, according to word received here from Congressman John Luecke.

Twenty Years Ago

Escanaba—Contract for the construction of a modern brick building at 1104-06 Ludington street, to be occupied on a 20-year lease by S. S. Kresge company after May 1, was awarded today by Herman Gessner to A. M. Arntzen, Escanaba building contractor.

Manistiquette—Karl Sheahan arrived today from Milwaukee, where he attends Marquette university, to spend the holiday weekend with his father, Edward J. Sheahan.

Gladstone—Lloyd Ackley, student of Layton Art Institute in Milwaukee, is spending the week here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ackley.

chloride to melt the ice and personnel to melt the snow fighting machines."

IN THE BUCKET—Announcement of the state highway department that Delta county is to receive $2,313.69 for snow removal purposes may lead some people to think the Delta road commission's financial problem has been solved. One newspaper headlined the story: "State to finance county snow removal."

Here are the facts on snow removal cost in Delta county: Estimated cost of snow removal between now and April 1, 1949 is $43,000; snow removal aid received from the state $2,313.69; remainder to be raised from other sources $41,687.

The state formula for the distribution of weight and gas tax funds to the counties does not include the factor of snow removal. That is why the state legislature annually appropriates a total of $200,000 for distribution to counties that had 60 or more inches of snowfall last winter.

The appropriation for snow removal is a drop in the bucket. When a new formula is considered for distributing road tax revenues the inescapable factor of snow removal cost should be included.

KEEP 'EM GREEN—The time is approaching when people once again will worry over the problem of keeping the needles on the Christmas tree. You know how they start dropping after a few days in the heat of the living room.

Down at Brighton, Mich., there is a budding industry devoted to the solution of that problem. The company's plant produces a vinyl resin latex solution that, sprayed on the trees, prevents the foliage from drying out rapidly. People we know place the butt end of the tree in a container of water—and then forget to refill the container. Best insurance against needle dropping is to purchase a tree that has been cut only a short time before you put it up.

Roving Reporter

By Hal Boyle

New York, (P)—An open letter to Santa Claus:

What do I want for Christmas? Nothing at all this year, Nick. Yep, that's the whole list—nothing. Nothing at all. Don't even bother to slam on your brakes when the reindeer mush by my chimney. Because I ain't even going to bother to hang up my stocking.

I know this will come as a slight shock to you. It did to me, too. Usually my Christmas list—whether you can fill it or not—is longer than a horseplayer's face at twilight. But this year it's another story.

It isn't that I have any complaint on the service you've given in the past. And I haven't lost faith in you, Santa, old pal. Me and little Virginia—we'll always believe in you.

It's just that I wore out wanting things I really didn't need. You know that you can want a thing so hard that you finally get so you don't want it. And you not only don't want it, you even may have a dislike for it.

Stumped for Ideas

So this year my Ozark haus-frau said, "Write, Santa Claus what you want," I suddenly found myself stumped. For the life of me I couldn't think of anything I wanted. I told her so.

"Why that's impossible," she said. "Everybody wants something for Christmas."

"I wanted something last Christmas," I explained, "and I wanted something every other Christmas I can remember. But this Christmas I don't want anything."

"How about a half dozen nice white shirts?"

"It was three years ago I wanted white shirts," I reminded her. "Now I don't like white shirts."

"How about a new suit?"

"The only suit I want is one with a double breasted coat, vest and two pairs of pants. But they don't make any like that anymore. So I don't want a suit for Christmas."

What else is there? Don't want a new silk robe or a fancy electric razor. Still have the old red wool robe and the cheap black plastic razor the army gave me five years ago. Still like 'em, t. u. Still like my old army shoes, for that matter. Guess, if there's another war, I'll get another pair free.

So pass me by this Christmas season, and give my share of the grab bag to somebody in Europe, where people need more than they want, instead of vice versa. Here, sometimes, it's a full day's job thinking up something to want that you, don't need at all.

Regards to Mrs. Claus, Hal Boyle

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Whether the old bosses like it or not, a new generation of Democratic leaders has emerged as a result of the Truman triumph. They include Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Governor-elect Chester Bowles of Connecticut and Illinois' Governor Adlai Stevenson—plus one unpublicized gentleman who has inherited the leadership of the California Democratic party with as much unpremeditated forethought as a man tripping down a flight of stairs.

He is State Senator George Luckey of California.

The Luckey political story is as fabulous as that of Jack and the Beanstalk. A year ago, Luckey was a successful cattleman living quietly outside Los Angeles. Today, as vice chairman of the Democratic party for Southern California, he has succeeded Jimmy Roosevelt as a Democratic potentate and kingmaker.

When the Democrats went to Philadelphia for their convention last July, Luckey wasn't even a delegate. He was merely an alternate—though a fiery supporter of Harry Truman. He fell into the job of bossing California Democrats chiefly because everyone else thought Truman was licked.

Most California Democrats threw their hands in the air. But Luckey rolled up his sleeves and agreed to underwrite any deficit incurred by the party. And election day found him the most important Democrat in California.

MR. LUCKEY GOES TO WASHINGTON

Last week George Luckey came to Washington, but not like a tourist. He wore embroidered cowboy boots underneath his pants. The minute he hit town, the White House was on the phone inviting him to visit the president. Treasury Secretary Snyder, Agriculture Secretary Brannan, Howard McGrath, Louis Johnson and other high Democratic potentates waited on Mr. Luckey, wine-and-dined the country boy who never gave up.

The Luckey story spelled victory for the Democrats in several ways. In 1932, Luckey was a New Mexico rancher, virtually broke. Roosevelt's election gave him a chance to borrow enough money from the agriculture department to market his cattle in California, and his subsequent financial recovery paralleled that of the country. Gradually he built up his holdings, until today he markets in the neighborhood of 12,000 head of cattle a year from ranches sprawled over Utah, California and Texas. He has just completed a $300,000 push-button cattle-feeding plant outside San Antonio.

Asked why he plunged so heavily on the Democratic party, Luckey says:

"The Democrats have been good to the Luckey family. You don't shoot your banker where I come from."

The Luckey-Truman friendship had an unusual origin. About a year ago, Luckey heard Truman speak on the radio. He wrote the president a congratulatory note. Truman answered personally. The correspondence built a personal friendship.

Asked if he had ever corresponded with Roosevelt, Luckey replied:

"I wouldn't even have written to Roosevelt. He was sort of like God. You prayed to him, but you never wrote. Truman's just a regular feller—the kind anyone can understand."

Luckey still wears his cowboy boots everywhere—even to the White House, and when Truman saw him he chuckled: "George, I'm sure you're still wearing those boots. They're just right for booting a few of the guys around here who need a real kick in the pants."

UNHAPPY MR. FORRESTAL

Best evidence that the president hasn't changed his mind about firing Secretary of Defense Forrestal is the inside story of what happened at Key West. Forrestal's visit was built up by his newspaper friends as a sure sign he had wiggled back into Truman's good graces. But here are some facts that didn't leak out at the time.

First, Forrestal flew to Key West at his own request, but expecting a private, intimate chat with the president. Instead he found the house full of guests and little chance to be alone with Truman. Though the president walked to the door to greet other important guests as they entered, he waited until Forrestal was halfway across the living room before acknowledging him. When Truman really likes anyone he goes all-out to meet them, even goes all the way to the airport to meet Secretary of State Marshall.

At luncheon, Forrestal was seated at the president's right, according to protocol, but he was left out of the conversation. Truman directed most of his attention to Florida's newly elected Governor Fuller Warren, swapping stories with him and chuckling merrily.

When the drinks were passed, Forrestal took orange juice. The others didn't. But on the second round, the unhappy defense chief blurted that he would join in something stronger. It sounded like a strained effort to become one of the boys, though, he continued to sit stiffly at the president's elbow, smiling wanly and saying little.

The press made a big to-do over a statement issued by Press Secretary Charlie Ross that the president had conferred 45 minutes with Forrestal. The truth was, Truman and Forrestal stood together on the lawn chatting briefly while the other guests milled about.

WILL THEY UNITE?

Southern and Northern Democrats are sending each other cryptic messages over the capital grapevine, regarding the hottest question in Washington—who will boss the committees of Congress for the next two years?

When Northern Democrats hinted that a reshuffling of committee assignments might be tried, dealing the southerners to the bottom of the deck, whispers came back from the southern bloc that this might force them into a coalition with the Republicans.

DRAFT DODGER LET OFF EASY

Year And A Day In Jail
Not Bad, Says Ruark

By ROBERT C. RUARK
New York.—I quarrel with the verdict of Federal Judge Harold Medina, who just hit a draft-dodger, with a year-and-a-day, with the hint that if he came back to court repentant before a certain date the sentence might lighten. To my mind, the judge should have thrown the book.

Ruark

A year-and-a-day is not bad duty, as time in ranks is reckoned, and few prisons are less pleasant than the rudimentary indoctrination to hayfoot, strawfoot, especially to the kind of Greenwich Village "intellectual" who objects to a draft on social, political and philosophic grounds. A quiet warm cell is fine for the composition of non-rhyming poetry, and one meets so many interesting people in a jail.

I know something about this particular rugged individualist, who served 19 months in jail during the last war for refusal to report for induction. His name is Sander Katz, and he is one of the long-hairs who stroll the village streets, lost in reverie and a turtle-neck sweater he has scruples against the draft act, but no scruples against the enjoyment of living in an intact country, made possible by a draft act.

Would Be Useless

Mr. Katz, if inducted, would be utterly useless as a soldier, and would undoubtedly receive a section 8, which would loose him swiftly on the streets of Bohemia. It is my point, though, that he should be given the chance to qualify for his psychiatric discharge, or else have no law. Or, on refusal to comply, he might be sentenced to double the time of the existing draft enrollment—42 months.

No matter what you think of a draft, especially in peace, it is law for the nation and a great many fine young men will be ripped untimely from their personal pursuit of happiness to take part in same. The pre-draft volunteers will serve a minimum of 18 months. The draftees will serve 24. Mr. Katz, if unpardoned, serves 12 months.

I was talking, the other day, to a young man with sad eyes—eyes which grew somber because he bestowed about three years on Johnston, Canton, and Palmyra Islands. This boy pulled a year-and-a-quarter on Canton Island alone. No solitary cell can be much worse than Canton Island—a grim pimple of treeless land in the middle of the Pacific.

While this guy was sweating out a confinement easily comparable to a prison, young Katz spent a quiet 19 months in a stateside brig. Katz had a deal for himself. And I might add that he'd be eligible for draft exemption if he had conformed to a national demand that caught up all the splendid youth presently planted at Anzio and Tarawa. No Special Exemptions. A peacetime draft is a specifically awful thing—pointless to the individual if there is to be no war. Irsome at best, and superfluous if the war really comes, since its blueprint will be speedily scrapped in favor of a plan embracing everybody, including veterans. But it has been deemed by Congress as a necessary measure to security, and is shaped for universal application. As the law of the best surviving nation it supposedly owns no special exemptions, even to people whose high moral principles condemn it as evil.

I am personally sick of the dissenters who enjoy the benefits and refuse the penalties of living in this particular land. So long as we operate by duly-passed law, the punishment for non-conformity should be bitter and ample—ample to the point of dramatic emphasis. It has been doubly difficult to sell this current draft legislation to the nation—it will become more difficult if the willful dodgers escape with a slap on the pinky.

Young master Katz will be eligible for another confinement if he refuses to register when he is sprung from his present sentence—if he serves that sentence at all. Theoretically he can be kept in the brig in perpetuity, but that won't happen. It would be so much simpler to tuck him away for the duration of the Selective Service Act, plus double-time. And it would serve, simultaneously, as a lecture to the sharpers and a reassurance to all the good kids now wearing khaki that they haven't been chumped by their Uncle Sambo. We certainly owe them a reiteration that what applies to one applies to all.

DOG CAN BE NUISANCE

Centralia, Ill. (AP)—On a rainy school day little Barbara Ann Knipp couldn't find her rubber overshoes when she started to leave school for home. She sloshed home and found them there. Her pet terrier dog had slipped into the school, picked out her mistress' rubbers from among those of other pupils and toted them home.

State Pays Gas Tax Money To Counties For Snow Removal

Lansing (AP)—The state highway department is prepared to pay $200,000 in state gas tax money to counties having 60 inches or more of snowfall last winter.

Child and Santa
Claus Theme Of Christmas Seal

The age-old attempt of children to catch a glimpse of Santa on Christmas Eve inspired the picture on the 1948 Christmas seals, which have been arriving in thousands of homes throughout Delta, Menominee, Dickinson and Iron counties since late November.

This year's seal features a small, blonde-haired boy, in red flannel pajamas, sitting on the floor, hands clasped about his knees and gazing into a blazing fireplace over which three empty stockings hang.

Barry Bart of South Kent, Connecticut, well-known American artist and illustrator, painted the picture after he had watched his young nephew hurry silently downstairs on Christmas Eve and set up his vigil near the fireplace.

The Christmas seal sale, which was launched on November 22 and will end on Christmas Day, is the 41st annual sale in Michigan and the 42nd on a national scale.

"Tuberculosis still leads the disease causes of deaths in the age group 15 to 35," Theodore Werle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis association said. "The disease caused 1,643 deaths in Michigan last year. Every Michigan citizen helps in the effort to lower this toll of needless deaths through the purchase of Christmas seals and thereby, improves his own protection."

Urgency for public action, based on knowledge of tuberculosis, was emphasized by Mr. Werle, who said that in Michigan today, thousands of tuberculosis patients are receiving the benefits of modern tax-supported sanatorium treatment through the leadership of Christmas seal dollars. Many lives in every Upper Peninsula county will be involved by the way citizens answer the 1948 Christmas Seal call.

Typical Case
In illustrating the encouraging results of Christmas Seal contributions, the state Christmas Seal sale spokesman cited a typical instance of the success modern treatment methods for tuberculosis is meeting in Michigan. In May of 1941, a woolen mill worker in Michigan was found to have tuberculosis. This man was a breadwinner for a family of five. He spent two years in a sanatorium unable to assume the responsibility of his wife and children. Today, with the tuberculosis arrested through scientific rest treatment methods and surgery, this Michigan father is back to normal life, supporting a family, contributing to society. Years ago—just a few years ago—he may have been added to the list of those meeting unnecessary death from tuberculosis. His family would have joined the ranks of those in orphanages or relying on welfare from the state.

All tragic, needless deaths from tuberculosis can be prevented by Michigan citizens through the purchase of Christmas seals. Other hundreds of Michigan neighbors may be saved the social and economic ruin tuberculosis death brought into 1,643 homes in this state last year.

Fist Fight Enlivens Marquette's City Commission Session

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—Fists flew at a city commission meeting last night.

Before order was restored Chief of Police Donald McCormick had to step into the scene.

The combatants were City Manager James R. Pollack and Gurn E. Webb, a manufacturer's agent of Marquette.

Approximately 25 startled citizens and municipal officials were witnesses to the brief but energetic bout.

The commission was considering costs of piping material, and Pollack accused Webb of overcharging the city. Webb defended himself.

"That is a D—d lie," said Pollack.

"You're a liar," shot back Webb.

Thereupon the fight started.

Several blows were exchanged between the bantamweight Pollack and the husky Webb before Chief McCormick could separate the men. The only evident damage, however, was to dispositions.

Before the fistfight Webb said that his son had erroneously billed the city. At the time, Webb said, he was in Florida and had turned the business over to his son.

Temper didn't cool entirely after the fight, either.

"I came here as a taxpayer," said Webb. "Your city manager showed his undiplomatic manners by calling me a liar."

"That still goes," retorted Pollack.

Commissioner Leo Bruce said he would ask for a "complete investigation."

Marquette's city manager form of government has been marked by controversy.

Dorothy Shipman Speaks to Rotary On Trapp Family

The Escanaba Rotary club in meeting yesterday at the Delta hotel was entertained by Mrs. Dorothy Shipman of Manitowish, with a colorful and amusing account of her visit last summer to the Trapp family music camp at Stowe, Vermont.

Famous in Europe and America for their musical talent, the Trapp family once appeared in Escanaba in a Town Hall concert. In recent years the Trapps, originally from Austria, settled in Vermont when not on tour and opened a music camp. They are now American citizens.

Mrs. Shipman brought to her lecture a sympathetic and lively word picture of the talented family and their life on the Vermont farm and the nearby old CCC camp which they converted into a music camp accommodating 150 persons.

Gershwin Popular In German Capital

Berlin (AP)—America's George Gershwin is on the way to becoming popular over here, too. His famous "Rhapsody in Blue," "Concerto in F," and "An American in Paris" were presented by a symphony orchestra in Berlin recently. Guest-conductor Sergiu Celibidache of the world-famed Berlin Philharmonics and his musicians did their best to let this performance breathe the genuine air of symphonic jazz.

Berlin's large Titania Hall was packed to capacity three times, mostly by youthful Berliners who wanted to find out more about Gershwin. Although classic-minded

PINTO DEER—Here is Robert O. Helberg of Ironwood with the Pinto or spotted deer he shot while hunting in Ontonagon county this season. Helberg, a safety engineer of the Employers Mutual company, sent the picture to M. D. Jackson, 406 South Fourth street. Hunters in the western portion of the Upper Peninsula report they have seen several albino deer in recent years, but this is the first time a spotted one has been either killed or sighted.

Lecture Series Will Open Wednesday Night

The Hiawathan Wildlife Series, consisting of five illustrated lectures by noted photographers and naturalists, will open at the Wm. W. Oliver auditorium at 8 Wednesday night with a program, entitled "Happy Valley," by Tom and Arlene Hadley.

The series of five lectures will be presented here under the joint sponsorship of the University of Michigan Extension Service and the Wolverine Conservation club.

Other numbers to appear later in the series are: Ben East, well known outdoors writer now with Outdoor Life; Arthur Sinclair, naturalist and chalk talker; Walter P. Nickell, photographer-ornithologist; and Walter E. Hastings, wildlife photographer.

Interested persons can enroll for the series by contacting University of Michigan extension office and Wolverine Conservation club members.

Tom and Arlene Hadley of Pleasant Ridge, Michigan, are truly a great nature team, devoting much time not only to their own enjoyment of the great outdoors but to stimulating others in the Detroit region to enthusiastic participation in expanding nature programs.

By vocation, Mr. Hadley is a member of the General Motors Executive staff, head of the architectural section of the Fisher Body Works, engineering department. By avocation he is a naturalist, wildlife photographer, poet and philosopher.

Active in state and local conservation and audubon organizations, Mrs. Hadley is conservation chairman of the Ferndale Women's club and a member of the Michigan Wildflower association. She also assists her husband in the photo field and projection.

Their film-lecture reveals a story of beauty for beauty's sake, in the form of flower, fruit, trees, water fall and wildlife found in the fields and forests of our land.

ed critics sniffed at what they called "lukewarm-hot," the crowd was enthusiastic, especially about "Rhapsody in Blue," well-known also in Germany from Paul Whiteman's recordings. The American Forces radio, AFN, has a good share in Gershwin's popularity here, because of its frequent broadcasts devoted to modern American composers.

Sea Lions Now Intrigue Sydney

Sydney, Australia (AP)—Sea lions and sea leopards in Sydney's harbor have Sydneysiders intrigued. Their antics are a daily feature in newspapers.

One, mad with rage, chased Bert Baker, a Maritime Services Board employee, a mile or two up the harbor. Bert was chugging along in a launch, when up popped a sea lion with a big jewfish in his mouth.

Bert leant over and grabbed the fish and set his boat at full speed. The sea-lion gave chase, "snorting like the intake of a jet engine," according to Bert. He gave up when Bert, the boat and the fish reach a jetty.

Horses Give Tails To Communist Drive

Berlin (AP)—Taking a leaf from Hitler's stringent wartime economy, the Communists of eastern Germany are now making horses contribute to the economic recovery of the Russian occupation zone by wearing shorter tails.

The Berlin press reports from Potsdam that the Communist government of Brandenburg has issued a decree for the bobbing of all horses' tails and delivery of their hair to government bureaus for disposition.

The object was to aid the two-year economic plan with which the Communists are attempting to revive lagging production in eastern Germany.

Lake Huron Fishermen Get Big Hauls Of Shad

By JAMES A. O. CROWE
Lexington, Mich., Dec. 1 (AP)—Lake Huron commercial fishermen in the neighborhood of this fishing and resort village have recently been hauling up a new fish in their nets.

They identify it as the shad, a herring-like fish that is unfit for human consumption. The fish, they report, has been mutually absent from Lake Huron waters for 15 years.

Conservation department fish experts, advised of the reappearance of the fish, were at a loss immediately to advance a theory for the phenomenon.

They had not yet investigated the new catches on the spot, but Fred Westerman, fish division chief, said that his staff believed the fish were not the true shad, but a variation called the gizzard shad.

These fish have been present for years in Lake Erie and the Detroit river, they reported, but they could not even guess what had prompted them to migrate north through Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair river.

The gizzard shad, they explained, is important to sport fishermen as a forage fish for game species. It is a small fish, only slightly larger than a smelt, but there are records of its reaching lengths of 16 and 17 inches.

Meanwhile, the commercial fishermen, who are braving cold winds to cash in on this year's hold-off of ice and snow storms on the lake, have no time for speculation on the scientific explanation.

Where in recent years the shad was a rare occurrence in their nets, fishermen are hauling them out by the ton. The hauls are so heavy that broken nets are not uncommon.

Guy Wiltzie, a commercial fisherman who lives some five miles north of here, said he was counted as many as 6,100 of the fish in a single net.

The unexpected bonanza is finding a ready market among fox and mink ranchers who are feeding the fish to the animals. Caught in scarcities and high prices the ranchers have been hard put in some cases to find economical feed for their stock.

It has also been suggested that the conservation department look into the possibility of using the fish for feed for hatchery trout and other game fish species. Here, too, the problem of finding economical feed has been a difficult one.

Pigeons Force Church Repairs

Williamsport, Pa. (AP)—Maybe the lighted, rotating cross attracted the pigeons.

Anyway, they like the unusual tower atop the Pine Street Methodist church in Williamsport, Pa. They stayed long enough to deposit a layer of manure 9 to 12 inches thick on the tower floor at the base of the revolving cross.

When a steeplejack was repairing the church tower, he found two tons of pigeon manure which filled 100 bags weighing more than 40 pounds each.

Repairs already costing more than $1,500 have been made, and the job won't be complete until a fine wire mesh screen is placed over the slats in the tower windows to keep out the pigeons.

Arnold A. Phipps, chairman of the church building committee, estimated that the pigeons had been roosting in the 185-foot tower approximately 20 years since it was last cleaned and repaired.

Mexico City (AP)—Discovery of the ruin of another ancient Mayan city in Quintana Roo Territory has been reported to the National Museum of Anthropology and History.

The ruins are in Yucatan, 38 miles west of the former Mayan capital, Carrillo Puerto. A Mayan farmer told of finding inscribed stones on his jungle lands in 1944. Lizardi Ramos heard about it recently through a report to the Department of Education, and went to investigate.

In Burglary Of Grocery Store

City police are investigating an unsuccessful attempt at burglarizing a shed back of John's Market on Oak street. The padlocked hasp on the door was badly twisted and the wood on the door gouged. Two screwdrivers, one bent almost double, were found in a nearby coal shed. A wall board on the shed was also pried loose, but for some reason, known best by the prowler, this method was not pursued.

The shed had, during several months last summer, been used as a storing place for merchandise, including cases of beer and it is presumed that it was the beer the prowler was after. If such was the case he would have been due to disappointment because no beer has been stored there since last summer.

This has been the second attempted breaking in downtown Manistique in the past few days. During the early hours of Saturday morning, an attempt to break into the Knights of Columbus hall was foiled.

TRAFFIC CRASH
INVOLVES FOUROne Car Bumps Another
In Quick Succession

A badly maneuvered left turn during a Saturday afternoon traffic rush on Deer street, caused a collision which in turn caused two more collisions before the cars involved came to a stop.

John Olesak, who admitted in justice court Monday morning that he had had a "few too many," was driving east on Deer street, and in attempting to turn north at the Houghton street intersection crashed into a car heading west driven by Bob Anderson. The car was hit about in the middle and turned completely over. The steering apparatus of the Olesak car broke and the car continued on its way crashing into the curb and at the same time ramming a parked car owned by John Brown. The Brown car, upon being hit, lurched forward and crashed into the well drilling truck of Elwyn Anderson, hitting the long drill apparatus and getting that out of line.

Brought before Judge W. G. Stephens in justice court Monday morning, Olesak pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. He was fined $50 and $5 costs which he made arrangements to pay.

Kills Buck In Front
Yard Of Farm Home

Success in this deer hunting business lies mainly in being in the right place at the right time, or so it sometime appears.

Leon Gagner of Northville, Mich., and Roque Gagner of Farmington, Mich., relatives of the Luther LaCombs of Gladstone, have been hunting from the Adolphus Gagner farm on Route 1, Cornell. They hunted hard but to no avail. Thanksgiving Day Leon stepped out of the house and there in the front yard stood a buck.

He downed it and found later it had 8 points and dressed out at 165 pounds.

Also successful in filling their licenses were Isaac Belanger who got a 7 point, 170 pounder and Walter Belanger jr. who got one with a 14-point rack weighing 200 pounds.

The Gladstone Ski club has undertaken its 1949 membership drive and letters are being mailed to all former and prospective members inviting them to become members of the club.

Stamped, addressed envelopes for convenience in remitting are enclosed with each letter.

A portion of the letter follows: "The membership fees continue at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for juniors—truly a remarkable basis when all the privileges that such membership entitles you to are considered."

"For this membership entitles you to your ski club button and all the facilities of the Gladstone Sports Park and the clubhouse during the skiing season."

"There'll be finer and better skiing this year. The two ski tows, for the front hills and the bowl hills, will be in use and the bowl hills will be completely new. The hills will be floodlighted for night skiing. . . work has started on a ski scaffold. . . new trails and hills will be available. . . parties and entertainments will be held regularly. . . a caretaker will be in charge, and a caterer will handle all the lunches and refreshments."

"Your membership makes the progressive steps possible. Your club wants to provide you with the best skiing area in the north country."

Surprise Party—Walter Belanger was pleasantly surprised last Wednesday when a group of relatives and friends gathered at his home on North 15th street to celebrate his 54th birthday anniversary.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Schafer, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Belanger, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kee, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. James Belanger, Harry, Lowell and Walter Belanger jr., Louis Marohnic, Israel Belanger, Mr. and Mrs. George Moreau, Josephine Moreau, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bizeau and Mrs. Margaret Beauchamp.

The evening was pleasantly spent and at the close a tasty lunch was served. A three-layer birthday cake centered the table.

The guest of honor received many gifts as mementoes of the occasion.

Arrangements for the event were made by Mrs. Albin Anderson.

Susan's Party—Susan Kay Ebbesen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ebbesen, 22½ North 7th street, entertained a group of youngsters on Friday afternoon at her home in honor of her eighth birthday anniversary. Games were played and prizes awarded the various winners. A delicious birthday luncheon was served at a table prettily decorated in a Thanksgiving motif, the centerpiece being Storybook dolls and a three-tiered birthday cake iced in pink and green.

The little honored guest received many nice gifts as remembrance of the occasion.

Football Bowls Fill Up Fast; Only Cigar, Salad And Harbor Still Looking

New York, Nov. 30 (P)—Of the 30-odd post season bowl games, only three are still shopping around for talent today.

They are the Harbor Bowl at San Diego, Calif.; the Salad at Phoenix, Ariz.; and Cigar at Tampa, Fla., each looking for one other team to fill the bill.

The Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., completed its program yesterday by naming Texas to play Georgia.

Three of the smaller post-season attractions also finished their lineups. The Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., named Murray

Pitt, Once Scourge Of Gridiron, Seeks Bigtime Ball Club

New Athletic Director To Be Appointed

Pittsburgh, Nov. 30 (P)—Somebody is going to be handed a big job today—the task of pushing the University of Pittsburgh back up among the nation's football big powers.

Only a few know now who has the inside track for that job, which carries with it the title of Pitt athletic director. However, many believe the official finger will be pointed at Capt. Tom Hamilton, genial athletic director at the U. S. Naval Academy.

Tom isn't talking. Informed a few days ago he was the rumored first choice, he said merely:

"I'm flattered to be considered."

Jim Hagan Resigned

Pitt announced it would reveal its choice yesterday. However, Chancellor Rufus H. Fitzgerald said: "Final decisions by all parties on this matter have not yet come about."

He added the decision would be announced immediately after an executive committee meeting of the university trustees this afternoon. Chancellor Fitzgerald said the group which met yesterday discussed setting up an integrated, correlated program which will tie in the functions of the athletic director to the overall physical education setup of the university.

The post of athletic director has been vacant since the resignation last summer of Jimmy Hagan. He quit after a series of investigations by committees into Pitt's declining football fortunes.

Did Okeh This Year

Coch Mike Milligan, working out the second year of a three-year contract, also came under fire but was permitted to stay on. He didn't do too badly the past season, Pitt winning six and losing three. The last victory was the sweetest—a 7-0 upset of highly rated Penn State.

Last season was a far cry from 1947 when Pitt dropped seven out of eight. But it was a far cry too, from a few years ago when Pitt football power was the talk of the land.

Prior to 1938, when Pitt de-emphasized football, its grid teams made three trips to the Rose Bowl, and turned down a fourth. Glenn S. (Pop) Warner started the Panthers on the victory trail and the late Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland kept them there—until he quit in disgust because he wasn't getting the players he needed.

No one will say officially that Pitt intends to abandon its de-emphasis program, but one source declares:

"Just say that more of those good Pennsylvania boys will be going to school here instead of in some other state."

Unbeaten Duluth JC Keyed For L'il Bowl Game With Compton

Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 30 (P)—Unbeaten Duluth, Minn., Junior college is due here Sunday and advance word says the team is geared for victory over Compton College in the third annual Little Rose Bowl game Dec. 11.

Compton, kingpin of the junior colleges hereabouts, boasts one of the best teams in its history, but, say the Minnesota reports, wait! Duluth hits 'em.

The visitors boast a pair of twins, Bob and John Zelenizer, who have an average of 10 yards per run with the ball, another back, Ralph Neuses, who falls just past the figure, and a passer, Pete Peterson, who has completed 31 out of 50 pass tries for 506 yards.

Compton's ace is Hugh McElhenny, regarded as one of the finest ball carriers in Junior college play here in many years.

EASY FOR JOE

Cincinnati, Nov. 30 (P)—An overweight Joe Louis hardly worked up a sweat here last night as he continued his exhibition tour with four easy rounds against Oakland Bill Smith of Cincinnati. The heavyweight champ, who outweighed Smith, 229 pounds to 170, seldom opened up with any hard blows. And Smith, of course, could do nothing with boxing's No. 1 man. There were no knockdowns.

State College of Kentucky to play Sul Ross Teachers of Alpine, Tex. Trinidad Junior College of Colorado accepted a bid to meet Northeastern (Okla.) in the Salt Bowl at Hutchinson, Kas.

The Tangerine Bowl is Jan. 1. The Salt Bowl event is set for next Saturday. The Pacific destroyer forces and Hawaiian All-Stars were named to play in the Silver Bowl at Mexico City Dec. 11.

Sponsors of the Harbor Bowl announced they had invited Navy to take on Nevada but Navy officials declined comment on the bid. Villanova, meanwhile, is said to be considering an invitation to play in the event.

The Cigar Bowl has chosen unbeaten Missouri Valley College for one half of its fare and has narrowed the other half down to three teams—Bowling Green (Ohio), St. Thomas (Minn.) and Wofford (S. C.).

The Salad Bowl, with Drake University already chosen, is awaiting a decision by Arizona players to take the opposing role. It was announced in Nashville that Vanderbilt and Tulane may meet in a post-season game at Mobile, Ala., Dec. 30.

The major bowl lineup:

Rose at Pasadena—California vs. Northwestern.

Sugar at New Orleans—North Carolina vs. Oklahoma.

Cotton at Dallas—Southern Methodist vs. Oregon.

Orange at Miami—Georgia vs. Texas.

Gator at Jacksonville—Clemson vs. Missouri.

Dixie at Birmingham—Wake Forest vs. Maylor.

Delta at Memphis—Oklahoma A. and M. vs. William and Mary.

Sun at El Paso, Tex.—West Virginia vs. Texas Mines.

Minor League Ball Clubs In New Jersey Are Having Troubles

Newark N. J., Nov. 30 (P)—When the minor league baseball magnates pop open their brief cases in Minneapolis for their annual meeting next Dec. 8, one of the troublesome case histories to come under close scrutiny will be that of the state of New Jersey.

New Jersey, which started the 1948 baseball season with five professional baseball teams, already has lost two and is in danger of losing more, a survey indicated today.

At the start of the '48 campaign, the line-up read like this:

Newark and Jersey City in the Triple A International league.

Trenton in the Class B Interstate league and New Brunswick in the Class B Colonial league.

Bloomington in the Class D North Atlantic league.

New Brunswick and Bloomington are out. The experiment at New Brunswick was a complete failure after the city had campaigned for some time for a franchise in the Colonial loop.

Bloomington, just outside Paterson, never was a money maker, but its affiliation with St. Louis Cardinals kept it going. Not long ago, the Cards announced they would not renew their contract with the Troopers, so the owners decided to throw in the sponge.

How about the other three teams?

The Newark situation is serious. The Yankees owners of the Newark franchise have put it up for sale but thus far have not had any offers. The Yanks are not bluffing, either, although it is entirely possible that they may be forced to keep the team through a paucity of buyers.

Like the other teams, for the past few years, the Bears simply have not been making expenses, and the Yankees are tired pouring money into the losing venture.

For the present, at least, Jersey City and Trenton, both of which are owned by the New York Giants, probably will keep operating.

The Wait Window-National Guard game previously was scheduled for 6:30 but was moved back to 9:30.

City Basketball Tilts To Be Played Tonight

The Knights of Columbus will play the Independents instead of Harnischfeger at 6:30, and Wait Window will play National Guard at 9:30 in Escanaba city basketball league games at the Escanaba junior high school gym this evening. Other games will remain as scheduled, it was announced.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS "It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Warren Gustafson, who climaxed three years of varsity play with a bangup year at tackle on the Escanaba high school football eleven, this week was honored by being named on the first all-state high school football teams selected by the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit Times and on the second all-state high school team picked by the Detroit News—the highest honor accorded any Upper Peninsula player.

This constitutes a tribute to the six-foot two-inch 195-pound husky as the outstanding high school football player in Upper Michigan in 1948. Fast and versatile—he punted, kicked off and occasionally ran with the ball off fake punt formations—Gustafson's ability is widely recognized, and it is generally accepted that Escanaba's big "Moose" deserves this all-state recognition more than any other player in the U. P.

The Associated Press' eighth all-state high school team will be announced next Saturday and will be published then in this newspaper. More than 100 coaches, officials and sports writers, representing all corners of Michigan, participated in the AP selection.

This group is the same board of experts that picked Dick Rifenburg, Michigan's all-American end, on the 1943 all-state high school team; Harry Szuborski, Purdue's great running back, in 1944, and Dominic Tomasi, Michigan's all-Big Nine guard, who also was an all-Michigan prep performer in 1944.

For a preview of the top college prospects in this year's high school crop, watch for the story and pictures that go with the new Michigan all-state team on this sports page next Saturday.

Herb Nicholson, Escanaba signal-caller and speedy-back who specialized on reverses and wide end sweeps, was given honorable mention on the Detroit News team. . . . Both Don Carlson, Eskymo triple threat, and Nicholson were given honorable mention on the Free Press team. Dick Aartila, four-year Marquette star, was placed at end on the third team. . . . Other U. P. players given honorable mention were Billy Wells and Emil Pontow, Menominee star backs; Sibald, Sault Ste. Marie, and Novak, Wakefield, backs; Paul Juntilla, Negaunee, end; Bob Carlson, Manistique, tackle; Jim Pozza, Iron Mountain, and Ken Casanova, Norway, guards, and Ed Kulvinen, Wakefield, center.

Strain-on-the-family-tie item—when the Escanaba VFW and Quinnesec Day-Pegs meet in NWM basketball play, Carl J. Langager, of Escanaba, is in a quandary. . . . He doesn't know for whom he should root. . . . It goes like this: Arthur J. Flath is commander of the Escanaba VFW. . . . Francis Tausche is sponsor of the Quinnesec team. . . . Bill Rasmussen is a Quinnesec player. . . . And Flath, Tausche and Rasmussen are married to the Langager girls. . . . They're Carl's sons-in-law. . . . So when Quinnesec and Escanaba meet, Carl has to be the essence of diplomacy.

Cuff notes: Escanaba's notice that it does not plan to participate in any more night high school football games is causing considerable discussion in other U. P. communities to whom the notices were directed. . . . Menominee's reply reportedly may end the Menominee-Escanaba series, the oldest in Upper Michigan, dating back to 1898. . . . Marinette, Sault Ste. Marie and Kingsford, we understand, dislike the move, also. . . . Present talk in Menominee is that if the Escanaba-Menominee series ends, Marinette and Menominee will double up and play each other twice in one season, the first being a night affair early in the season and the second the traditional daytime get-together late in the season.

Our vote for the top ten teams in the final college football poll was Michigan, Notre Dame, Army, North Carolina, Northwestern, Oklahoma, California, Southern Methodist, Oregon and Michigan State. . . . Three Iron Mountain youths won football awards at St. Norbert's. . . . They were Paul Goodreau, end; Bob Bergeron, tackle, and Bill Pavant, guard. . . . The New York Giants announce their try-out camp at Sanford, Fla., for next February. . . . Any player interested in applying for a tryout is asked to write to Carl Hubbell, New York Giant Office, 102 West 42nd street, New York, N. Y.

George Danko, Manistique freshman, is a member of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology basketball team. . . . He is six feet one and one-half inches tall, weighs 187 and exerts at either forward or center. . . . Three Newberry athletes on the MCMT squad are Robert Foley, Gerald Mattson and Mike Serafin.

MHSAA To Reconsider Policy On Broadcasts Of Prep Cage Tournaments

Lansing, Nov. 30 (P)—A proposed revision of the State High School Athletic Association's controversial policy on broadcasting high school basketball tournaments will be thrashed out tomorrow.

A committee representing Michigan radio stations will meet with the executive board of the association to seek a new policy more agreeable to the broadcasters.

Radio station operators have registered protests at the association's long-standing policy of charging a fee of $500 for broadcast.

Like the other teams, for the past few years, the Bears simply have not been making expenses, and the Yankees are tired pouring money into the losing venture.

For the present, at least, Jersey City and Trenton, both of which are owned by the New York Giants, probably will keep operating.

Irish Second; Tarheels, Bears, Sooners Move Up As Army Drops To Sixth

By Will Grimsley
New York, Nov. 30 (P)—Mighty Michigan is college football's "Team of the Year."

As a climax to a series of dazzling successes, the Wolverines held the No. 1 place today in the Associated Press' final poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

They beat out their old rival for national honors—Notre Dame—in balloting that gave them 3,448 points to 3,325 for the Irish.

Ray Steffen Stars At Center For MSC In Opening Affair

East Lansing, Nov. 30 (P)—Michigan State had little difficulty beating Hillsdale 53-43 and Alma 46-33 in a doubleheader basketball opener for the Spartans here last night witnessed by 5,033 fans.

Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne fielded two separate squads against the visitors during the evening, using the workout as a shakedown for his Spartans in a search for talent to send against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday night.

Best prospect uncovered was Ray Steffen, a six foot four inch sophomore center from Flint. Steffen was high man for the night as he racked up 22 points against Hillsdale Jack Wulf, six foot eight inch center, who had been looked upon to replace Bob Brannum, star and leading scorer last year, only made one point on a free throw against Alma.

Forward John Granack, a second stringer last year, also showed talent as he was high man with 18 points against Alma.

The separate Spartan teams took an early lead in both games and never were threatened during the evening. Hillsdale put up the game fight in the first bout as they only trailed 17-15 in eight minutes to go in the first half but MSC had a 24-19 lead at the breather and kept inching ahead until the finish.

Against Alma, the Spartans led 14-0 until the first Alma point was scored after nine minutes of play. MSC had a 25-10 lead at the half and managed to hang on to the commanding edge despite some sloppy playing in the second frame.

The Spartans now will tackle three Big Nine foes in a row, playing Michigan Saturday night, Indiana at Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 6 and returning to play Iowa here Dec. 13 in the next home game.

Oklahoma's Coach Is Best of Year In Big '7' Conference

Kansas City, Nov. 30 (P)—Youthful Charles (Bud) Wilkinson, the husky football headmaster of the Oklahoma Sooners, is "coach of the year" in the Big Seven conference.

Wilkinson, who coached his Sooners into a Sugar Bowl date, got 90 per cent of the votes—23 to 3—in a poll of the Big Seven writers conducted by the Associated Press.

The Sooners tied Kansas for the conference crown in 1947 and won it outright this year. Rated fifth in the final National standings for the season, they'll be looking for greater prestige against North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl Jan. 1.

Wilkinson was a star player on the great Minnesota teams under Bernie Bierman in 1934-35-36.

National league umpire Artie Gore hit one home run in 66 games of organized ball. It came in 1923 with Nashua, N. H.

Forsythe said the issue had not been raised much until this year, but that a substantial number of stations had expressed a desire to broadcast the games. The $500 fee in the past reportedly has kept the broadcasters out of the tournament.

Forsythe said some high school officials have opposed broadcasting of games for fear they will reduce admission receipts. He said the tournament, including regional and divisional games, last year cost the association $110,000 and that full gates were needed to meet expenses.

Only in the last two or three years has the state tournament attracted a full house, Forsythe reported.

In addition to the fee question, Forsythe said proposals to permit game broadcasts are complicated by the lack of facilities in the Jensen Field House at Michigan State college where the tournaments traditionally are held.

Michigan State's radio station WKAR, may broadcast all games this season, he added.

Wild Big Nine Cage Scramble Foreseen

Defending Champion U-M Faces Tough Job

By Charles Chamberlain

Chicago, Nov. 30 (P)—Basketball coaches of the Big Nine conference foresee the wildest championship scramble in years with four teams, and possibly as many as seven, contending for the 1948-1949 cage crown.

They generally agreed in an Associated Press survey today that Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State and Illinois appear to be the strongest threats in about that order. But Northwestern, Purdue and Indiana also were viewed as surprise packages.

A trend of all-around team improvement is prevalent throughout the Big Nine, making for an exciting, unpredictable campaign in which sophomores will play a prominent part.

Without Wier, Cook
Coaches failed to give much consideration to Iowa and Wisconsin after graduation took those two clubs' scoring stars, Murray Wier and Bobby Cook. Wier, the Big Nine sharpshooting champion, led Iowa to runner-up spot behind title-winning Michigan last season. Cook helped pace Wisconsin to a tie with Illinois for third place. Purdue finished fifth, Ohio State and Minnesota deadlocked for sixth, and Indiana and Northwestern tied for last place.

With each conference team but Purdue opening the season in tuneup engagements this week, here is the coaches' outlook:

Tippy Dye, Ohio State—"We will do all right if we are not hurt too much at center. We lost 6 foot 6 inch Neil Johnston who signed a pro baseball contract. Our best replacement is Bob Radiger, 6 foot, 4 inch center. Michigan probably will be the favorite, but we all know how hard it is to keep a championship team in the race for a second consecutive title."

Ozzie Cowles, Minnesota—"Only three men now appear sure of their positions—Jim McIntyre at center, Whitey Skog and Walter Salovich, both forwards. The coming race will be very close. Almost all schools have veterans returning and some good sophomores. Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois possibly will have the edge."

Bud Foster, Wisconsin—"We have a better team as a unit than last season. But there will be no Bobby Cook on hand. Caliber of play will be high all through the conference."

Pops Harrison, Iowa—"I've been working players in different combinations. We will have to revise our tactics after losing a player like Wier. The Big Nine should be as tough as it ever has been."

Ernie Mc Coy, Michigan—"Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio State will be awfully tough. Ohio State was a fine club of sophomores last year. They should be hard to beat this time."

Mel Taube, Purdue—"Our prospects are about the same as last season. We'll have a sound veteran squad and possibly may break into the first division."

Harry Combes, Illinois—"We'll be faster this year, and, I think, a better team. We won't have as much height because we lost 6 foot 3 inch Jack Burmaster. But the sophomores coming up look good."

Branch Mc Cracken, Indiana—"We finished at the bottom last season but we'll be improved this

Sandy Saddler Has Rough Non-Title Go With Dennis Brady

Boston, Nov. 30 (P)—New featherweight champion Sandy Saddler of New York, today had reason to suspect that overweight matches are not the easiest way of picking up boxing purses between title engagements.

The Negro stripping took on rugged and rough Dennis Pat Brady of Hartford Conn., in a 10-round non-title battle at the Boston Garden last night and the packed crowd of 12,007 agreed the former earned his wages the hard way.

Brady apparently irked about Saddler's success against Willie Pep, another Hartfordite, rushed the titlist with bull-like fury at the opening bell and had him flustered until the fourth round.

The aggressive Hartford Irishman was staggered by a terrific left hook in the 10th and he had cuts under both eyes at the final bell.

Throughout, both butted, back-handed and wrestled each other and Referee Tommy Rawson almost lost his voice warning them. Saddler weighed 129½ and Brady 132.
